MOBILES ARE BUILT. BUICK WILL BUILD THEM

A Week in Oxford County

By O. L. Evans

Taken from Piscataquis Observer

When F. W. Sanborn of the Norway Advertiser ("Butter Boy") was, as he expressed it, "marooned" in Dover-Foxcroft several days in July because of the illness of his housekeeper, who with Mr. Sanborn and party had been spending some time at Moosehead Lake, he frequently visited The Observer office, having long been friendly with the Editor, L. P. Evans, and for a shorter period with myself.

Mr. Sanborn's friendship is of such long standing and so sincere and his success in the newspaper business so marked, that criticism from him is always welcome (though not always heeded), and in the course of his visits to the Observer's plant he discovered several of our methods which he considered could be improved upon.

The outgrowth of these criticisms was an invitation from Mr. Sanborn for Mrs. Evans and myself to visit Norway where I could spend a few days in the Advertiser office, examine its innermost workings and bring back with me ideas which I thought worthwhile. This invitation was gladly accepted, and on Sunday, Sept. 16, we sailed forth.

Dinner time providentially found us in Hallowell and of course the natural thing to do was to dine at The Worster which is famed far and wide for its fine meals. The dining room, as usual, was crowded, and many were waiting, but since there were but two of us in the party, we were given a table at once. Those who have eaten Sunday dinner at The Worster know what a feast we had; those who have never been there little realize what they have missed.

From Hallowell we journeyed on to Brunswick where a detour was made to inspect the new Union and other improvements at Bowdoin College, then on to Lewiston, Poland Spring and Norway. We were guests while in Norway of Mr. Sanborn's nephew, Ralph S. Osgood, business manager of the Norway Advertiser, and it should be recorded here that Mr. Osgood is a most generous and courteous host and our stay in his home was much enjoyed.

Monday forenoon was spent in the office where Mr. Sanborn, Mr. Osgood, and Ernest Murch, the foreman, each did his share in initiating me into some of the preliminary mysteries of the establishment. The office is well equipped with machinery, including two linotypes and other material necessary to produce one of the best country weeklies in the state and also do a large volume of job printing. Mr. Sanborn has been in the printing business for many years, and the experience he has gained is reflected in the methods used in his plant, many of which it is hoped will eventually be adopted in The Observer office.

Monday afternoon Mrs. Evans and I went to North Bridgton, where we called on my cousin, Harold H. Sampson, principal of Bridgton academy, and his family, and on his mother, Mrs. Laura G. Sampson of Dexter, who is matron of the Boys' Dormitory at the school. Mr. Sampson has been at the head of Bridgton Academy for several years and the school has prospered greatly under his leadership. The enrollment is now about 150 boys and girls, many of the former coming from Massachusetts. North Bridgton is an ideal spot for a school and there are few things there to distract students' attention from their work.

Tuesday forenoon Mr. Sanborn had business in South Paris and since Walter Smith, who drives the car, was otherwise engaged, I drove him over, accompanied by Mrs. Evans and Don C. Seitz. Mr. Seitz was spending the week in Norway, and since he is a great friend of Mr. Sanborn's, we saw much of him and enjoyed every moment of our conversations with him, for he is a very brilliant man.

Mr. Seitz learned the printing business in the office of the Norway Advertiser and for over a quarter of a century was business manager of the New York World. He is now engaged in writing and has to his credit numerous biographies, including one of Joseph Pulitzer, one of Horace Greely, and one of Artemus Ward, besides many magazine and newspaper articles now being syndicated. Though his career has taken him far from Norway, Mr. Seitz has a very warm place in his heart for the town, and returns to it whenever possible, much the same as Mr. Seitz shall B. Downing, James V. Elms and Charles H. Bowden return to Dover-Foxcroft.

While we were waiting for Mr. Sanborn to transact his business, we called on Arthur E. Forbes, in the editorial spectrum of his paper, the Oxford Democrat. Mr. Forbes has been in the publishing business for many years and is a well known figure at the meetings of the Maine Press Association.

When Mr. Sanborn rejoined us he proposed that we drive to Bethel, a proposition to which we all readily assented. The ride from South Paris to Bethel is a delightful one, the vistas of Oxford county's hills and of the White Mountains beyond being very lovely. At Bryant's Pond we stopped and paid our respects at the printing establishment of A. Mont Chase. Part of Mr. Sanborn's religion is to call at every printing office which he encounters in his travels, and of course this was not to be passed by. He had in this particular instance an ulterior motive in calling, for he wished to borrow of Mr. Chase an overcoat to use during the remainder of the ride.

Mr. Chase's son is engaged in business with him and when he learned I was from Dover-Foxcroft he told me that in that town he married his wife, formerly Miss Margarette Elms of Dover-Foxcroft and Guilford.

Our next stop was at Bethel where we again stopped printer's ink in the office of the Oxford County Citizen. Bethel's beautiful location, in the foothills of the White Mountains alone would make it famous. To increase its fame, however, there is the Bethel Inn, one of the most popular of the fine hotels of the state; there is the home of the richest man in the State of Maine, William Bingham, a very modest dwelling, little disclosing the fact that it houses a man who in one year has paid an income tax of over $300,000; there is Gould academy which is of particular interest to me since my grandfather, Dr. David Evans, attended that institution before entering Bowdoin Medical School, and which now possesses a fine dormitory and athletic buildings, gifts of Mr. Bingham.

From Bethel we proceeded home through Albany and Waterville. Although I had been in Oxford county several times before, I was impressed more than ever this time by the immense amount of forest land within its confines. One can drive in many directions for miles and not encounter a clearing, to say nothing of a farm house. And this is between villages, and not in a distinctly wild land section, such as the Ripogenous road in Piscataquis county. On passing a lonely farm house I commented on what a life must be there in the winter, and Mr. Seitz said that during that period of the year the inhabitants demned up like bears and snaked their paws.

Tuesday afternoon about four o'clock, Mrs. Evans, Ralph and I started for Mr. Sanborn's so-called farm, situated at Round Pond, about four miles from Norway village. Round Pond is small enough so that Mr. Sanborn owns it and its shores outright and thus can control it in every respect. He has endeavored to insure good fishing in the pond by stocking it with trout on several occasions, but, to quote Mr. Seitz, the fate of the fish is a "piscatorial mystery," for they are never in evidence, and fishing there is very indifferent sport.

This failure to produce good fishing and the quite considerable sum of money represented by the whole establishment have caused some of Mr. Sanborn's hard-headed friends to dub it "Sanborn's Foolery," and as one leaves the main highway and enters the gate, a sign bearing that legend first meets his eye.

The distance from the highway to the lake is one-half mile, and Mr. Sanborn owns a right of way 16 feet wide from the center of the road on each side. This right of way has been cleared of underbrush, although the trees are still standing, and on the edge on each side has been set out a row of cedar trees, which makes a very effective hedge.

The construction of a road through the woods necessitated the moving of a large quantity of rocks, and instead of having these heaved into the woods, Mr. Sanborn had built a number of stone monuments of various sizes and shapes, such as pyramids, cones, cubes, etc. Each one of these structures, representing hours of arduous labor, has a name, and a sign nearby tells the stranger what it is. The first one encountered is the Chocolate drop, a huge conical shaped structure, 10 or 12 feet high, I should say, and bearing on its face a bronze tablet with the following inscription:

Zubie
A faithful bitch
1905-1915

Erected by Joseph Lary

Zubie was one of Mr. Sanborn's Airedales, a dog Jack being similarly commemorated on a tablet elsewhere, and Joseph Lary is the caretaker at the Farm. Other of these rock structures are the Pyramid, Forts Constitution and Lawrence, the Bee Hives, Joe's Couch, the State House, the Tabernacle, the Opera House and the Council Chamber, this last being a wigwam built on a cement base and provided with a stone fireplace.

The main house at the Farm is finished throughout in hard wood, and is superior to many houses found in any village. The kitchen contains every convenience, the living room with its huge fireplace is delightful, and there are three sleeping rooms on the second floor, one with fireplace and the other two heated with stoves so that the house can be occupied in winter as well as summer. The house is provided with a spacious piazza, part of which is screened, and in front of it lawn, dotted with trees, slopes gradually to the shore of the pond. Other buildings at the Farm consist of the caretaker's house, stable, ice house, boat house and wood shed. The rest of the buildings at the Farm are most enjoyable, and we were reluctant to leave next morning for Norway.

Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. Evans and I again set forth, this time for Fryeburg. Our route took us through Waterville and Lovell to Fryeburg Harbor, where we called on my cousin, Mrs. Charles E. Stanley, and family, with whom in years past we had had several pleasant visits, including trips into the White Mountains. On our last visit the Stanley home has been equipped with a bathroom and electric lights, which with a steam heating plant make it the equal in comfort of any home in town or country.

From Fryeburg Harbor we went to Fryeburg village where we called on Elroy O. LaCasse and family. Mr. LaCasse is a graduate of Bowdoin, having roomed for two years with Judge Harold M. Hayes of this town, and for several years has been principal of Fryeburg Academy. With Mrs. LaCasse, who is a graduate of Colby, he conducts a summer camp during vacations so that he is throughout the year associated with young people with whom he has been very successful.

From Fryeburg we hastened back to Norway, going through Bridgton, North Bridgton and Harrison. The early incidents of the return journey being my failure to make turns at junctions of roads necessitating in some instances a turning back and calling forth some pointed, and, I thought, unnecessary remarks from Mrs. Evans.

It would appear, perhaps, that my chief object in going to Norway—to get some idea of how things are conducted in an Advertiser office—was lost sight of in a round of pleasure trips. That, however, was not quite the case, for when I was in the office of Mr. Sanborn and Ralph both devoted a good deal of time to writing things in showing me just how and why things were done as they were and I feel that aside from an enjoyable vacation my time was indeed well spent.

Don't place too high a value on the man who talks too much. A penny can rattle around and make more noise than a thousand dollar bill.

Church Notes—Bowies Moved

The Jameson Local Union of Christian Endeavor held its semi-annual meeting at Steep Falls, Saturday, Oct. 13. Seven attended from our society, bringing home the banner for having most members present in proportion to number of members enrolled. We can keep the banner until May, when at the annual meeting it will have to be earned again, if we have it at the time. A great deal of credit was given our C. E. for keeping the society active through the winter in the absence of a pastor. We were elected a committee to try to form societies in nearby towns and to stimulate more interest in the Union. The Japanese twins again visited Sunday school with a cute program. Sunday, the children brought their slippers, clothing and toys to send to our ex-pastor at Atlanta University, Georgia, to be given the negro children who are much in need. Angie Colby led the C. E. There were twenty-six present. Reports of the Jameson Local Union were given by Clyde Sanborn, Myrtle Rose, Alice Sanborn and Hazel Ingalls. C. E. is asked to bring clothing and toys for the missionary barrel. The ladies of the church took up the carping. The interior of the church is to be entirely renovated.

Mr. Star had two special rehearsals for their inspection which was the highlight. Leon Ingalls and family went to Portland, recently, and saw the movie "The King of Kings."

Mrs. Jennie True and Barbara spent last week at Naples. Nellie Berry entertained at bridge, Saturday evening, October 13. Addie Wentworth won high score.

Bessie Hale has moved to Jackson, N. H., where they are to have charge of a farm. All regret their leaving.

Hazel Wentworth was home from Berlin, N. H., where she is teaching, for the week end, recently.

Bessie Hale has gone to Massachusetts to work this winter. Myrtle Rose is working at Bailey Trumbull's.

A REAL OCTOBER SALAD
Do not allow yourself to get away from the daily salad habit, now that the weather is getting colder, and some of the usual salad ingredients are not at hand.

Health demands plenty of green vegetables and fresh fruit, in winter time as well as in summer. Here is an exceptionally good little salad that may be prepared at this season—at very little cost, too.

Peel oranges and remove all white skin. Cut into one-fourth inch slices and cut each slice into halves. Dice celery and apple and mix with mayonnaise. Arrange a circle of half-slices of oranges on a lettuce-covered salad plate, fill center with apple and celery mixture, and garnish with celery tips.

Worry is rust upon the blade.

Man So Nervous Gets Sore When Spoken To

"It actually irritated me to have any one talk to me, I was so nervous. Vinol ended this and I feel wonderful now."

Vinol is a compound of iron, phosphates, and liver peptone, etc. The very FIRST bottle makes you sleep better and have a BIG appetite. Nervous, easily tired people are surprised how QUICK the iron, phosphates, etc., give new life and pep. Vinol tastes delicious. L. V. Ashton, Druggist.

Less crowded environments for your factory in

Maine's smaller centers
of population

AN unhurried uncongested atmosphere has a beneficial effect on production. Employees can own their own homes, be responsible citizens in the community and more interested producers in the factory, with expensive turnover reduced to a minimum.

Wise manufacturers are considering these and other advantages which the less crowded environments of the smaller centers of population offer:

lower living costs and therefore lower labor costs, lower taxes, cheaper land, ample room for expansion, and in many cases less crowded shipping conditions and closer proximity to raw materials and markets.

MAINE

The Land of Remembered Vacations, is nationally known for its scenic beauty, its lakes and ponds and woods; fishing, hunting, boating; but it is not generally known that Maine is the home of many important manufacturing industries. Among its manufacturers are such well known concerns as:

Ault Williamson Co.
A. J. Bean Shoe Co.
Cushman Hollis Co.
Dana Warp Mills
Hyde Windlass Co.
Kennebec Canoe Co.
Knox County Granite Co.
W. S. Libbey Co.
Mason Mfg. Co.
No. Wayne Tool Co.
Old Town Canoe Co.
Oxford Mining and Milling Co.
Sanford Mills
South Paris Mfg. Co.
A. J. Sweet Co.
Vickery & Hill Pub. Co.
Wilton Woolen Co.
(Names of other well known Maine Manufacturers to follow).

Widespread distribution of continuous, adequate power, such as is afforded through the interconnection of power resources of the Central Maine Power Company system gives the smaller centers of population an industrial status comparable with the big city.

Whether for main or branch points, any industry considering the importance and strategy of its location will be interested in the information available on the two hundred odd communities served by the interconnected lines of this Company. Correspondence is invited. Address INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT DEPARTMENT, CENTRAL MAINE POWER COMPANY, AUGUSTA, MAINE.
